FORM 104PN - PART-YEAR RESIDENT/NONRESIDENT TAX CALCULATION SCHEDULE 2000

Taxpayer's Name				Social Security N	lumber
(a) Taxpayer is (check one):	☐ Full-Year Resident;	☐ Full-Year Nonresident;	☐ Part-Year	Resident from	/00 to	/00.
(b) Spouse is (check one):	☐ Full-Year Resident;	☐ Full-Year Nonresident;	☐ Part-Year	Resident from	/00 to	/00.

HOW THIS FORM WORKS. Use this form if you and/or your spouse are a part-year resident or a nonresident of Colorado. It will determine what percentage of your income was earned in Colorado or was earned while you were a Colorado resident. Since the tax amount you get from the tax table is calculated on your total income for the year including income not taxable by Colorado, this percentage will reduce the tax amount so you are only taxed on your Colorado source income. Simply follow the four steps on the front and back of this form.

STEP ONE. Check the part-year resident/nonresident box at the top of Form 104. Complete lines 1 through 18 of Form 104. Using the Colorado taxable income on line 18 of Form 104, find the tax from the tax tables. Enter that tax on line P of Form 104PN.

STEP TWO. COMPLETE THE FEDERAL COLUMN. Complete lines A through J of the federal column using the information from your 2000 federal income tax return. Line H will be the same as line 22 of your federal Form 1040, line 15 of your federal Form 1040A, or line 4 of your federal Form 1040EZ. Line I will be the same as line 32 of your federal Form 1040 or line 18 of your federal Form 1040A. Line J will be the same as line 33 of your federal Form 1040, line 19 of your federal Form 1040A, or line 4 of your federal Form 1040EZ. Enter on line K the total amounts you entered on lines 3, 4, and 5 (excluding any conservation easment deduction) of your Colorado Form 104. Enter on line M the amount you entered on line 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 16 of your Colorado Form 104.

Note: Your federal itemized deductions, standard deduction, and personal deduction are not entered on this form since you are calculating only the percentage of income taxable by Colorado. The federal taxable income on line 1 of Form 104 already gives you the benefit of these deductions. (Steps three and four on reverse side)

STEP THREE. COMPLETE THE COLORADO COLUMN of Form 104PN according to the following instructions. The Colorado column will generally include income from the federal column that was earned in Colorado or was earned from Colorado sources. In the case of a joint return when one spouse is a full-year resident and the other is not, the resident spouse should enter his or her entire income and adjustments in the Colorado column and add in the Colorado income and adjustments of the other spouse. Instruction letters below correspond to line letters on form 104PN. Do not include anything in lines A through N of the Colorado Column that is not included in the federal column. If you have entered an amount in the federal column on any line, the instructions below will explain what amount to enter in the Colorado column.

PART-YEAR RESIDENT INSTRUCTIONS

- A. Part-year residents enter wages, salaries, etc. earned during that part of the year you were a Colorado resident. Enter moving expense reimbursement if you are moving into Colorado, not if you are moving out.
- B. Part-year residents enter interest earned and dividends received during that part of the year you were a Colorado resident.
- C. Part-year residents enter the business or farm income earned during that part of the year you were a Colorado resident.
- D. Part-year residents enter the gain or loss realized during that part of the year you were a Colorado resident.
- E. Part-year residents report IRA distributions, pension or annuity benefits or taxable social security benefits included in federal income and received during that part of the year you were a Colorado resident.
- F. Part-year residents report the rent and royalty income received or credited to your account during that part of the year you were a Colorado resident. Report partnership, S corporation, and fiduciary income apportioned based on the number of days of Colorado residency during the corporation, partnership or fiduciary tax year.
- G. Part-year residents report any other income earned or received during that part of the year you were a Colorado resident.
- I. The IRA deduction, the medical savings account deduction, the self-employment tax, the self-employed health insurance deduction, the SEP and the SIMPLE deduction are allowed in the ratio of Colorado wages or self-employment income to total wages or self-employment income. Alimony and the student loan interest deduction are allowed in the Colorado to federal total income (line H) ratio. Part-year residents may claim penalty paid on early withdrawal while a Colorado resident. Enter moving expenses if you are moving into Colorado, not if you are moving out.
- K. Enter any non-Colorado state or local bond interest earned while a Colorado resident, and any lump-sum distribution from a pension or profit sharing plan received while a Colorado resident. Do not include any state income tax deduction addback modification, and any charitable contribution addback due to the donation of a Colorado conservation easement on line K.
- M. Enter the state income tax refund subtraction, the interest dividend and capital gain subtraction, the federal interest subtraction, the pension exclusion, the Colorado capital gain subtractions, and the PERA or School District Number One retirement subtraction to the extent the income is included as Colorado income on line J. Do not include any marriage penalty subtraction on line M.

- G. Nonresidents report any other income from Colorado sources.
- I. The IRA deduction, the medical savings account deduction, the self employment tax, the self-employed health insurance deduction, the SEP and the SIMPLE deduction are allowed in the ratio of Colorado wages or self-employment income to total wages or self-employment income. Alimony and the student loan interest deduction are allowed in the Colorado to federal total income (line H) ratio. Nonresidents may not claim the penalty for early withdrawal.
- K. Do not include any state income tax deduction addback modification or any charitable contribution addback due to the donation of a Colorado conservation easement on line K.
- M. Enter the state income tax refund subtraction, the capital gain portion of the interest dividend and capital gain subtraction, and the Colorado capital gain subtractions to the extent the income is reported as Colorado income on line G. Do not include any marriage penalty subtraction on line M.

STEP FOUR. CALCULATE YOUR TAX

- O. The Colorado percentage is determined by dividing the Colorado adjusted gross income (line N, Colorado column) by the modified federal adjusted gross income (line N, federal column). Enter the Colorado percentage on line O. If the amount on line N of the Colorado column is larger than the amount on line N of the federal column, the percentage on line O will be more than 100%.
- P. Enter on line P the tax from the tax table based on the Colorado taxable income on line 18 of your Colorado tax return, Form 104.
- Q. Your Colorado tax will be the amount on line P multiplied by the percentage on line O. Enter your tax on line Q of this form and on line 19, Form 104.
